Dr. Jesse Cook is Adjunct Professor of Trumpet at Northeastern State University in Tahlequah, Oklahoma. Dr. Cook has recently enjoyed performances with the Houston Symphony Orchestra, the Austin Lyric Opera, the Austin Bach Cantata Project, and the City Limits Brass Quintet. Recent solo and orchestral appearances have included Bach's Brandenburg Concerto No. 2, Strauss' Ein Heldenleben and Alpine Symphony, Stravinsky's L'Histoire du Soldat and Petrouchka, Rimsky-Korsakov's Scheherazade, Handel's Messiah, Bernstein's Symphonic Dances from West Side Story, and Mahler's Ninth Symphony.

A frequent recitalist and clinician, Dr. Cook has performed for and instructed students at universities in Wisconsin, Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota, Texas and Oklahoma. Dr. Cook has a DMA in Trumpet Performance from the University of Texas-Austin. While in Austin, Dr. Cook served as the Teaching Assistant to the trumpet and brass chamber music programs. Dr. Cook also has a MM from UT-Austin and a BME from Roosevelt University. His principal instructors are Ray Sasaki, Mark Hughes, Mark Ridenour and Channing Philbrick. From 2006-2008, Dr. Cook was the band director at John Marshall Harlan High School in Chicago. During this time, he revitalized Harlan's band program, taking it from 30 to 120 students who performed exclusively on 160 school-owned instruments acquired during Dr. Cook's tenure.

Dr. Cook has written two articles, published in the International Trumpet Guild Journal, on the subject of Music Performance Anxiety. In addition, Dr. Cook was an invited speaker at the 2014 Texas Music Educators Association annual conference and the 2014 ITG Conference. He has also been asked to serve as a guest lecturer at several universities around the country, including the University of Wisconsin, University of Iowa, University of Minnesota, Baylor University, and the University of Houston.

Dr. Cook moved to eastern Oklahoma in the summer of 2014. He lives with his wife, Dr. Dorea Cook, and their cat at their home in Tahlequah, where they all root for the Green Bay Packers every Sunday in the fall.
